

The Shooting Gallery: Opportunities and Implications for the Introduction of an Ethnographic HIV Prevention Intervention

This report presents preliminary findings from an ethnographic pilot investigation examining the characteristics of a Baltimore city shooting gallery and its suitability as a venue for the dissemination of innovative harm reduction strategies.